

REVOLUTIONARY SUPREME COURT MARRIAGE DECREE IS NOW IN SESSION

Pope Will Issue Law Regarding Future Catholic Weddings. Many Important Cases Are Being Disposed of At Santa Fe.

Rome, Aug. 27.—Within a few days an extraordinary sensational and revolutionary law interesting all Catholic clergymen and laymen in the United States and affecting directly all Catholics in America will be promulgated by the Vatican authorities.

Until now the church law has been that American Catholics can contract marriage validly, although illicitly, by going before a justice or even before a Protestant minister when duly licensed by the civil authorities, but under the new law all these marriages will be regarded as null and void, among Catholics.

The new law, which is contained in a decree of the congregation of the council drafted by the special request of his holiness Pope Pius X., ordains that from next Easter no marriages among Catholics shall be valid unless they are contracted before a duly authorized priest in the presence of two witnesses.

Two Exceptions

There will be only two exceptions to this law, which is to be universal for all countries of the globe. The first is that when there is imminent danger of death and no duly authorized priest is obtainable, any obtainable priest can perform the ceremony in the presence of two witnesses. The second is decidedly revolutionary. It is that when there is no priest obtainable in the district, a man and woman may contract a marriage that will be valid merely by announcing their consent or intentions in the presence of two witnesses.

This latter is the most important change made in the marriage laws of the church during the past three centuries. It introduces a radical overturning of legislation in every country of the world and is regarded as the very first indication of sweeping changes that are to be introduced in the new code of Pius X., which has engaged the labors of the most learned body of ecclesiastical authorities in the Catholic church for the past four years and which eventually will cover the entire field of church legislation.

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 27.—The supreme court of New Mexico convened in adjourned session of the January term at 10 o'clock Monday morning at chambers in the Capitol. There were present:

Serna, clerk of the court. The United States was represented by United States Attorney W. H. Llewellyn and Assistant United States Attorney E. L. Medler, while the Territory was represented by Assistant Attorney General Robert C. Gortner, Lieutenant John W. Collier of the Territorial Mounted Police, was in attendance as a personal representative of United States Marshal C. M. Foraker.

Associate Justice William H. Pope, was the only absentee of the jurists at the opening session Monday, but he arrived this evening via the Santa Fe Central Railway. He was detained at his home in Roswell, Attorney General Albert B. Fall was also unable to be present owing to the illness of his wife at El Paso. However, in a telegram received from him this morning he stated he would be here today.

A recess was taken shortly after noon at 2 o'clock when arguments were heard in the case of the United States of America versus Benjamin H. Tallmadge et al. The defendants, who are the appellees, were indicted about two years ago for alleged land frauds involving homestead claims in the Pecos Valley, and it is more than likely that the case will be carried to the United States supreme court. Major Llewellyn, who appeared for the prosecution in the lower court, represented the federal government in the argument this afternoon, assisted by Mr. Medler, Attorneys T. B. Catron and R. C. Gortner, of this city, represented the defendants on the appeal.

Five applicants for licenses to practice law in the territory presented themselves this morning for examination. They were: Morgan O. Llewellyn, of Santa Fe, United States surveyor general of New Mexico; Harry S. Rowman, of Las Vegas; John W. Wilson, of Las Vegas; Harry G. Coors, Jr., of Albuquerque; and Thomas D. K. Maddison, of Albuquerque. They were put to work on the customary written examination, which will be followed by an oral examination.

HOW WOMEN SMUGGLERS ACT WHEN CAUGHT WITH GOODS

Humor and Pathos Often Seen in Customs House When Suspects Are Searched.

Miss Zuckriegel Who Spots the Daily Scores of Women Smugglers at Detroit Custom House.

Detroit, August 27.—It is given to but few women to get as deep an insight into the idiosyncrasies of her own sex as is afforded to Miss Daisy Zuckriegel of this city.

Miss Zuckriegel is employed as a special agent of the United States customs department at the international ferry dock in Detroit. Her duty is to intercept women smugglers, of whom there are scores every day. These women, nearly all amateurs, go over to Canada, buy some trifling articles which may or may not be durable and then resort to various artifices to get back unobserved into Uncle Sam's domains undetected.

And they would invariably do so, if their detention depended upon the eyes of a mere man. But there is where Miss Zuckriegel comes in. She knows the smuggler on sight.

"Have you anything dutiable?" she asks with an innocent smile. The woman addressed at once becomes either flustered or angry. She seldom owns up.

"Step this way, please," Miss Zuckriegel invites, and a brass-buttoned officer steps near to add pressure to the invitation if need be.

Given a Chance. The would-be smuggler is then given another chance in Miss Zuckriegel's private offices to declare herself. If she refuses and there is good reason to believe she has dutiable goods upon her, she is subjected to a rigorous search.

Some of the articles brought to light are merely funny, while others carry a tincture of pathos.

One woman was recently discovered coining a small pastboard box which contained the little trinkets and toys that once belonged to a baby now dead. She feared to show them, as some one had told her it would save trouble to pass right through without doing so. Her grief, as the little box was opened and the poor treasures therein exposed, was pitiable. It is needless to say Uncle Sam's representative leveled no toll on the poor mother's belongings.

"Pray sit down," said the inspector to a fashionable dressed woman, who recently tried to "run the customs," and was invited in to see Miss Zuckriegel.

"I pray you to excuse me," said the woman, with evident embarrassment.

And when it was discovered that she had a full-grown rose bush concealed beneath her skirts, her reluctance to "be seated" was explained.
